London-based online marketplace Depop launched in-game clothing in partnership with The Sims 4. The collaboration utilized existing Depop sellers who helped to develop custom pieces as a part of The Sims 4 "High School Years" Expansion Pack. Bringing secondhand fashion into the digital arena, the brands involved showcase how digital fashion can be fun, sustainable and affirming of a wide range of identities. The collaboration will be available on June 28 with the option to pre-order now on The Sims 4 website.

Dopamine is a newcomer to the Web3 space, having launched officially at NFT.NYC on June 23. The Web3 streetwear hub has embarked on building a metaverse, hypebeast community which collaborates with NFT designers and brands to deliver bespoke IRL and URL collectibles. The collective offers community members access to pop-ups at the likes of Coachella and Sneaker Con as well as a DAO to co-create the Dopamine brand. As there are multiple overlaps in attitudes of the Web3 and streetwear consumers, we're definitely going to keep an eye on Dopamine in the future. For more information on its drops and Discord channel, head to Dopamine's website.
